I. News Gathering Infrastructure¹

Infrastructure of journalists

1. How many journalists on your newspaper are assigned to the coverage of (please give numbers rather than percentages or fractions):

a) National domestic political affairs in the European Region?

b) International political affairs between countries within the European region?

.....

c) International and world affairs between countries extending beyond or external to the European region?

.....

d) Political affairs related to the European Union institutions and actions?

.....

2. Where is your newspaper institutionally based? And in which European countries and other regions of the world does your newspaper have correspondents?

.....
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....

¹ These are descriptive questions about the organisational resources available to the newspaper when gathering the information for news reports. Here it is not necessary to collect general basic information on readership size, geographical scope of the distribution of the newspaper, the number of staff at the newspaper, specifically from the interviews. However this information must be collected, and if not available from published sources, telephone calls to the newspaper should be made to collect this information.

3. Does your newspaper co-operate formally with any other newspapers, for example by pooling resources for gathering information, exchanging articles, or sharing correspondents?

Yes. Please name these

.....
.....
.....

No

4. Do you co-operate informally with journalists from other newspapers, when gathering information, sharing stories?

Yes. Please state which ones

.....
.....
.....

No.

5. In your newspaper organisation which are seen as the three most prestigious assignments among the positions as correspondents?

2.
3.

6.

a) Regarding your role as (European correspondent/the journalist covering EU affairs²) for the newspaper do you cover stories relating only to the EU and its institutions, or does this post also involve reporting on general national news in neighbouring European countries?

- EU affairs only
- National news in Europe
- Both

b) Are you based in a designated office or location near the EU, e.g., in Brussels?

- Yes
- No
- Sometimes

c) Is your position considered to be a good career move within the newspaper, in terms of what it could lead to in the future?

- Yes
- No

Please elaborate briefly on your answer

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

.....

² You should also have established prior to the interview whether the person you are talking to is the newspaper's designated European correspondent or a journalist who covers European affairs.

Newsroom Infrastructure

7.

a) Turning now to the daily newsroom practices for reporting on political events in your field, could you briefly explain who is normally involved, and what is their role? (Open then code)

.....
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....

b) Is this process different than reporting on the national domestic politics of countries, or international political affairs between countries either internal, or external, to the European region?

Yes. Please elaborate.

.....
.....
.....
.....
.....

No.

Links with other Press Agencies

8. Which three news agencies do you consider to be the most important in your field?

1.
2.
3.

Influence of the Internet

9. Has the advent of the Internet changed the way in which you report in your field?

Yes. Please briefly elaborate on these changes, and the factors which account for them

.....
.....
.....

No

II. News Reporting: Journalists' Selection Criteria for Sources

Journalists' Relationships to Public Actors as News Sources

10. Please name your three most important sources of information when reporting on European issues such as the Convention on the Future of Europe.

(Give names of organisation actor)

1.
2.
3.

11. You have given me your three most important sources. Now, if they are different, please name your three most important government, political party or institutional sources of information when reporting on European issues such as the Convention on the Future of Europe?

(Give names of organisation actor)

1.
2.
3.

12. Which are the three most important non-governmental institutions or organisations that you refer to as sources of information when reporting on European issues such as the Convention on the Future of Europe?

(Give names of organisation actor)

1.
2.
3.

13. Have the routine sources of information you use for these issues changed over the last ten years?

Yes. Please briefly elaborate on these changes, and the factors that you think account for them

V. News Commentating: Journalists' Attempts to Influence the Political Agenda (directly or indirectly)

Here we look at the way that journalists give interpretation to the political events, which they report. This occurs in its most extreme form in commentaries and editorials, but also to a lesser extent within news reporting. In short, the aim is to get at journalists' attempts to influence the political agenda, either directly, or indirectly, through shaping public opinion.

Journalists' attempts at political agenda-setting when commentating on reported events (especially, editorials and commentaries)

27. When you are writing an article that gives you the scope to express an opinion on behalf of the newspaper, and comment on political events, how often do you try to get your message across to the following actors?

VII. Newspaper Reporting on European Affairs and Its Position on EU

Here we focus more precisely on reporting of Europe and the political positions that the newspaper takes on Europe. We are interested in the newspaper's own political position that is expressed on the topic, and how it comes to take up such a stance.⁵

31. In your experience how much do you think that the following factors have contributed to the extent and way that your newspaper comments and reports on European issues? (Interviewer reads out statements below, interviewee answers)

	1. Not at all	2. A little	3. Moderately	4. Greatly
1. National politics becoming more closely related to that of other European countries	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
2. The increasing role of European Union institutions	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
3. National politicians seeing political events within a European context	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
4. Readerships understanding political events in a European context	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
5. Newspapers seeing political events within a European context	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
6. The level of political conflict over Europe	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

32. News reporting is a pressurised and sometimes difficult task. Please mention whether any of the following are a concern for you when reporting a story on Europe. (Interviewer reads out, interviewee responds yes or no)

	1. Yes	2. No
1. Availability of news space	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
2. Pressure of deadlines	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
3. Availability of resources for research/investigation	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
4. Pressure from senior editors/journalists	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
5. Pressure from management/organisational pressure	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
6. Access to official documents	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
7. Access to important public figures	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
8. Necessity to capture audience attention	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
9. Lack of expert knowledge on topic	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
10. Own lack of understanding of topic	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
11. Lack of clear cues and positions from politicians	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

⁵ For the EU correspondent and the editor it will be relatively straight forward to focus them on this topic. For the home affairs (immigration) and agriculture correspondents, the best strategy is to make clear to them that in this final section of the interview we are focussing on the newspaper's stance on European affairs, and we are asking them for an informed opinion as a journalist within the newspaper who has experience of covering stories that sometimes have a European angle.

Please elaborate on the most pressing type of difficulty that you encounter when reporting a story on ‘Europe’ in contrast to your experiences when reporting on other international or national political affairs.

33. When the newspaper comments on political affairs relating to Europe, such as the Convention on the Future of Europe, is the newspaper’s role in any way different than when giving an opinion on other international or national politics affairs, with respect to the following statements?

(Interviewer reads out, interviewee answers)

	1. Yes	2. No
1. The newspaper has more of a duty to improve public knowledge	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
2. The newspaper is more likely to follow the line of the political party with which it is most closely associated	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
3. The newspaper is more likely to follow the line indicated by national public opinion polls	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
4. The newspaper is more likely to try to influence the positions of political elites	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
5. The newspaper is more likely to follow the perceived position of the proprietor	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
6. The newspaper is more likely to defend what it sees as the national interest	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
7. The newspaper is more likely to express its own position, independently from other actors	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>
